He shares his incomparable experience in a way that complements an individual's learning style and invigorates the hair professional to return behind the chair and inspire both their clients and colleagues alike.

Camilla Hurrell
Diligent. Creative. Light-Hearted.

Camilla says, "creating color is a perfect blend of art and science." Camilla's personal philosophy stresses the importance of both technique and the quality of the hair. She believes that creating the right formulation for the client is important, but the difference between a good and a great colorist is the attention to the integrity of the hair and its condition. This emphasis on quality demonstrates an aptitude and professionalism that her students and colleagues deeply value. Camilla works with multiple non-profit organizations advocating on behalf of environmental, animal, and human rights.

"I consider myself someone who cares deeply about the environment, and I truly admire the Davines' commitment to reducing its ecological footprint. Since joining the business, the strong culture and family-like atmosphere are obvious, which is something I also highly value. I look forward to being here for a long time."

Independent. Authentic. Dedicated.
