Julian Perlingiero

With extensive experience as a salon owner, stylist, educator, platform artist, creative director, and principal of hairdressing academies, Julian Perlingiero has conquered most facets of the hair industry. His journey started nearly thirty years ago on the East Coast, taking him to New York City and later Los Angeles, where he focused his career on educating fellow hair professionals in two of the country's most renowned academies. Along with teaching countless students around the world, Julian also served an integral part of reinventing the geometric cutting system that so many hairdressers rely on today.

Julian's comprehensive understanding of the craft and ability to parlay it into effective education offers hair professionals an unparalleled learning experience. Students who learn from him gain skills and ideas that lead to greater professional success through creatively engaging techniques and the supportive Davines culture.

"The clean simplicity of the Davines brand mirrors my sense of beauty and offers a perfect industry partner for conveying a global understanding of our craft."

Independent. Authentic. Dedicated.
