My journey began in Afghanistan, where I was first diagnosed with PTSD. The challenges that followed made it difficult to maintain steady work, but they also led me to discover my true calling. Inspired by my own barber, I decided to pursue barbering—and quickly realized not only was I good at it, but I genuinely loved it. I trained at Paul Mitchell The School in Lombard and have spent six years honing my craft through advanced education with Depot Male Tools. I've been married for 30 years and am proud to be a father to two sons—one of whom works alongside me in the shop—while the other is giving me my first grandchild.

Outside of the barbershop, I enjoy riding my motorcycle, shooting, and tinkering with home networking projects.
